(June 13th, 2011 - Orlando, FL) Orlando real estate and business attorney Barry L. Miller has recently become involved with New York's Broadway theater with the new hits "Catch Me If You Can" and "How to Succeeded in Business Without Really Trying." Miller is a producer for both hits and is also the Executive Producer for the just released cast album of How to Succeeded in Business Without Really Trying starring Daniel Radcliff.

Miller recently attended the 2011 Tony Awards in New York City where John Larroquette won best support actor in a musical for How to Succeed and Norbert Leo Butz won the Best Actor Tony for Catch Me If You Can. At the after party for Catch Me, Miller met with Frank Abagnale, Jr., whose life has been transcribed in a book, movie, and now a Tony Award Winning Broadway production.

Miller, a member of the Florida, Massachusetts and New York bar associations, has expanded his practice in the area of Entertainment Law and is working on new projects related to the soon to open remounting of "Rent: The Musical" scheduled to open off Broadway later this summer.

Miller is the President of The Closing Agent, Inc., one of Orlando's oldest and successful title insurance agencies and leads The Law Offices of Barry L. Miller, P.A. which focuses on real estate and business law. In today's market, his focus has shifted to providing homeowners and real estate investors with unique solutions to complex real estate problems. Focusing on loan modifications, short sale negotiations, and foreclosure defense cases, his approach has always been to put his clients' needs first. In addition, he has developed many projects in the Thornton Park neighborhood. He has served as President of The Orlando International Fringe Theater Festival for many years and is currently on the Board of Directors for The Orlando Shakespeare Theater. Miller is also featured frequently on real estate matters on Orlando's FOX 35 In the Morning Show.
