THE PAPERLESS TRANSACTION

ORLANDO, FL, SEPTEMBER 7TH, 2009: As of September 1st, The Closing Agent launched a new fresh website along with new sophisticated title software. The merging of the two will help finalize a closing process that will be completely paperless from start to finish.

The software allows real estate agents and lenders to place title orders electronically. They will be able to view the status of a file at any time online and will receive regular updates any time there has been progression in the file. When it is time for closing the borrowers are able to sign their documents electronically and can submit them immediately to the lender. Only some Lenders offer this service but the industry as a whole is moving in this direction. The documents are then electronically recorded receiving an official record book and page number that same day. This eliminates the borrowers from having to wait long periods to receive their recorded documents. The transaction is finalized with the client's ability to access all of their documents through a link that will be available by password on The Closing Agent's new website. No
